

W(hy)iFi?

WHY is WiFi important? Because it's what keeps your Home connected. In today's world, WiFi is an extremely important part of everyday life. But what does WiFi really mean?

Attenuation is the loss of signal strength in transmission. Attenuation can occur when there is something blocking your WiFi Signal. This is why btel's technicians suggest the placement of your Access Point (Gigacenter or router) in your home, and why sometimes Mesh Units (btel's superb WiFi extenders) are suggested.
